B. Reading

2) Read the following passage then answer the questions:

People have always polluted their surroundings. But until now pollution was not such a serious problem. In the past most people lived in uncrowded rural areas and didn't have pollution-causing machines. But with the development of crowded industrial cities, the problem of pollution has become more important. Using automobiles and other machines made pollution steadily worse. Since the 1950's, people have become alarmed with the danger of environmental pollution. Air, water, and soil are necessary for the existence of all living organisms. But polluted air can cause illness, and even death. Pollution is a very complicated and a serious problem. Automobiles are polluting the air but they provide fast transportation for people. Pesticides are important for growing crops but they pollute soil. Thus, people would have to stop using many useful things if they wanted to end pollution immediately. Most people don't agree to do that. But pollution can be reduced gradually. Scientists and engineers can find ways to reduce pollution from automobiles and factories. Individuals and groups of people can work together to persuade enterprises to stop polluting the environment.
